U.S. facilities exporting those products should continue following procedures for exporting to China as outlined by relevant U.S. food safety regulators: FSIS and FDA. In addition, this report does not apply to U.S. exporters whose products are subject to review by the GACC Department of Animal and Plant Quarantine (DAPQ) or other PRC regulatory agencies.

Summary

GACC BIEFS made several revisions to the list of products and codes falling within the scope of Decree 248 registration since the last FAS China GAIN report published on May 8, 2024. Between May 2, 2024, and July 8, 2024, GACC added 60 products and removed 13 products. The attached spreadsheet contains three tabs: one for the current list as of the date downloaded, another for recently removed products, and one for recently added products. The changes affect aquatic products, edible vegetable oils, frozen fruits, dried fruits, canned fruits, candied fruits, fresh and dehydrated vegetables, grain products, grain milling industrial products and malts, milk products, protein beverages, plant spices, nuts and seeds, food preparations, and functional foods. Some of the updates are not complete removals of the products but additions of the same products with different Customs, Inspection, and Quarantine (CIQ) codes.

While FAS China plans to publish updates when GACC makes significant revisions, exporters should periodically run a “Product Type Query” on GACC’s Single Window system to determine if their facilities need to register. Exporters are encouraged to maintain active communication with their importers and to check for updates in GAIN and on CIFER. The appendix contains a list of resources and GAIN reports that will help exporters better understand Decree 248 and how to ensure their facilities are properly registered in CIFER.
